Church in Pictures

Susie Matsuura received the 2014 Medgar Evers award from the Pocatello Branch, NAACP. This award recognizes effort to elevate the status of individuals through advocacy, education, outreach, partnerships and social justice.

Torin Kelchner passes communion elements to David Fortsch.

Our sexton (custodian) is leaving before the end of 2014. If you can volunteer for some of the light cleaning duties please contact Moderator Grant Thomas.

Think about climate change

Why should people of faith care about the environment? During Sunday School, we'll discuss what several different religions are doing. Learn about a Green Mosque, what Korean Buddhists are doing about climate change and more

Important Film

Pocatello has suffered from extremists who disrespect and harass on the basis of race, religion, gender, ethnicity and other human rights categories. Think of opposition to gays and Muslims here. One town fought back - Billings Montana. Lessons learned in Billings might help fairness and inclusion here. Come to the film today at 7 PM stay for conversation. Help advocate for a fair, accepting and equal Pocatello.
